Democrats Outnumber Republican
Voters in City, County and State

by Mary Moien
Slightly fewer than 8,800 Greenbelters are registered and likely to vote in next week's election, according to the Prince George's County Board of Elections. Although less than the total of 10,000 Greenbelters reported to be registered for the primary, these people are considered to be "active" registrants. "Active" means that they have voted in at least one of the last two presidential elections.

Polling Locations
The four Greenbelt polling locations will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Election Day, Tuesday, November 7. Greenbelters from the center of the city, precinct 3, will vote at the Greenbelt Community Center, 15 Crescent Road. Residents in precinct 6, the North End, will vote at Greenbelt Elementary School, 66 Ridge Road; Springhill Lake residents, precinct 8, will vote at Springhill

Lake Elementary School, 6060 Springhill Drive; and voters in precinct 13, Greenbelt East, will vote at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, 7601 Hanover Parkway.
In Greenbelt, Democrats outnumber Republicans by 4 to 1. Of Greenbelt's total active registered voters, 67 percent are Democrats, 16 percent are Republicans, and less than 1 percent are registered as belonging to the Green, Reform, or Libertarian parties. See REGISTRATION page 5

Most State Politicians Are Ignoring State in Election

by James Giese
There's a big election coming up this Tuesday with the outcome in doubt as to who will be president of this country, but you wouldn't know it listening to Maryland television or radio commercials. The political parties and their presidential candidates are ignoring this state. Democratic presidential candidate Al Gore thinks that Maryland is in the bag for him, so he is off campaigning in states where the outcome is still in doubt. Republican presidential candidate George W. Bush has written Maryland off as a state where he can score a victory. He too is in other states. Neither candidate is spending much on advertising here either. Even Maryland's Democratic Governor Parris Glendening is reported to be off campaigning for Gore in other states.

The one statewide contest also has engendered little excitement. The polls predict and the political pundits expect incumbent Democratic Senator Paul Sarbanes to win his fifth term by handily defeating Republican Paul H. Rappaport.
The only other contest for elected office that Greenbelters are asked to vote on is that of Congressman for the Fifth Congressional District of Maryland. This district includes all of Greenbelt, most of Prince George's County outside the Beltway, the southwestern half of Anne Arundel County as well as all of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's Counties. Here too, there appears to be little doubt as to the outcome. Incumbent Steny H. Hoyer is expected to handily defeat Republican challenger Thomas E. "Tim" Hutchins. Hoyer's top political aide is reported to be in the midwest, working for Democratic candidates there.

Voters in Greenbelt also are expected to give strong support to the three Democratic candidates, as the city continues to be a stronghold for the Democratic Party. In 1992, Greenbelt cast 63% of its votes for Democrat Bill Clinton. In 1996, Greenbelters helped Clinton stay in office by casting 73% of its votes for the Democrat. Greenbelters have been equally supportive of Sarbanes and Hoyer.

Also on the ballot are the names of seven sitting appointed judges up for voter approval (or disapproval). There are no opposition or alternative candidates. For the seventh circuit of the Circuit Court voters are asked to vote for the five incumbents: Herman C. Dawson, G. R. Hovey Johnson, Maureen M. Lamasney, Ronald Dean Schiff, and Michael Patrick Whalen. For circuit 4 of the Court of Special Appeals, voters are asked to vote yes or no for Glenn T. Harrell, Jr., and for at large, Peter B. Krauser.

All about the Candidates ★★★★★★

by James Giese
(Material used in the following article is based upon news accounts, information provided by candidates, the Washington Post Prince George's Voters Guide and the League of Women Voters Guide for Prince George's County.)
How many candidates are there on the ballot running for President? Two? Wrong. Four? Still wrong. There are six. In addition, two candidates are competing for seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate. The candidates are listed in the order they appear on the ballot.
Gore
Al Gore, 51, Democratic Candidate. The son of a senator, Gore has been in politics most of his life, as a congressman and senator from Tennessee and for the past eight years as vice president. Before that he was a newspaper reporter for seven years. He has a B.S. from Harvard and attended first divinity school and later law school at Vanderbilt.
As vice president with President Clinton, Gore has asserted greater influence on the administration's operations than any other holder of this office. He is particularly noted for his efforts to downsize government by streamlining some of its operations. Gore has taken a populist stance in the election campaign, asserting that he will fight for the needs of the people, particularly the middle class. He emphasizes improving education by providing funding for more teachers, strengthening Social Security by putting some of the projected budget surplus into the trust fund, and reducing taxes by targeting relief to those with special needs such as paying costs for college education. Gore's wife Tipper has used her skills as a photographer to advocate the special concerns she has for children and the poor. The Gores have three daughters, one son and a grandchild.

Gore selected as his running mate Joe Lieberman, a senator from Connecticut. Lieberman is the first person of the Jewish faith to be nominated by a major political party to be vice president.
Bush
George W. Bush, 53, Republican Party. The son of a president, the grandson of a senator and the brother of a governor, Bush is currently governor of Texas, halfway through his second four-year term. A graduate of Yale University (B.A.) and Harvard University (M.A.), Bush was involved in oil drilling and exploration and other business enterprises including becoming the general manager and part owner of the Texas Rangers, a professional baseball team. Bush says he is a compassionate conservative and that he will be able to bring all sides together to get the business of government accomplished. Like Gore, he has emphasized the need to improve education, strengthen Social Security and reduce taxes, but in different ways. Bush supports using school vouchers, advocates enabling individuals to invest some of their Social Security funds in private investments and wants to cut income taxes across the board. He and his wife Laura have twin teenage daughters.

Dick Cheney was selected as Bush's running mate for vice president. Cheney was Secretary of Defense during the "Desert Storm" invasion of Iraq and has also served in Congress representing a district in Wyoming. More recently he has been an executive in the oil industry.
Browne
Harry Browne, 67, Libertarian Party. Browne was a successful investment advisor for 30 years and has written 11 books that have sold over 2 million copies. He married Pamela Lanier Wolfe in 1985 and has one grown daughter, Autumn. Born in New York City, he grew up in Los Angeles and currently resides in Franklin, Tennessee. He first ran Warmer or cooler? A decision on the desired temperature of the water in the Greenbelt indoor pool was not made at the October 23 Greenbelt City Council meeting, but equipment to better monitor and maintain an agreed-upon temperature was approved. City Manager Michael McLaughlin promised to come back to council at a later meeting with some recommendations and options on the water temperature.

Council also considered the first reading of a resolution to condemn land to make way for a post office in Greenbelt East and a report on the possible acquisition of the Greenbelt Theatre. Finally councilmembers took up legislative and transportation issues.
Greenbelt East Post Office
A revised resolution to authorize the condemnation of vacant property at the northwest corner of Hanover Parkway and Ora Glen Drive was introduced for first reading. This action would facilitate making the property available for acquisition by the U.S. Postal Service to construct a new postal facility on the site. A similar resolution presented at an earlier council meeting was revised after a public hearing.

The change made to the resolution was the inclusion of a statement of the specific understanding of council that the present postal facility in Roosevelt Center would remain open to provide current customer services. The city and the

Why Vote?

So if the election here in Greenbelt is already decided, with Gore, Sarbanes and Hoyer all expected to win handily, why vote?

If you support these Democratic candidates, your vote is needed to prove that the Maryland state polls are correct and that this city's electorate does support the party's three candidates. The greater a plurality they receive, the greater will be their mandate to do the things that they promised to do. If you favor the Republican candidates, on the other hand, you need to be part of a big turnout in case the Democrats stay home so there can be a surprise upset. Also, the greater vote your candidates receive, even if they lose, the greater the chance that their views will be listened to and credence given to them by those in office.

Even more important, your vote will count in the presidential election toward the total number of votes cast. Nationally, pollsters regard the presidential contest as a toss up, and your vote could help give a national mandate to govern to the candidate of your choice. If you don't like either of the two leading presidential candidates, you still should vote, because you have four others among whom to choose who represent a broad political spectrum.

Still another reason to vote is to support or oppose the repeal of term limits for the Prince George's County Council and County Executive. This issue was closely decided in 1992 and the vote could be close once more. Your vote could make the difference.

But the most important reason to vote is that you have been given an essential right by our federal constitution, the right to participate in the selection of those who govern you. You can freely vote the rascals out, or prevent the rascals from getting in, without fear of retribution or retaliation. Failure to exercise these rights in other places has led to the downfall of democratic government. This country can only remain a country by the people, for the people and of the people if all of us as citizens do our job and exercise our vote.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, November 7. See you there.

Herling Concert Tribute Benefits the Community

by Konrad E. Herling

As a youngster growing up, listening to the furiously paced music of my father, matched by fingers of alacrity and speed, it is no mystery as to why I grew up filled with fondness for the classics, be it Beethoven or Bach, Mozart, Grieg or Chopin. Not only was my father capable of conveying the powerful passages of these composers, but also the texture and softer portions which would draw me more into the piece to listen all that much more carefully. One can only imagine what it was like when Professor Santiago Rodriguez first met Albert Herling. After all, his skill, passion for music and understanding of the respective composer was just one way in which Al Herling communicated with friends and music lovers alike. While he always described himself as a "professional amateur," it was more a statement reflecting his many interests, be it labor relations, both professionally and voluntarily as chair of the city's Employee Relations Board, or in promoting an environment that stimulated the mind and heart, expressed through his hard work to persuade Prince George's County to build the new library it had promised, or his critical involvement in helping to found the Greenbelt Arts Center and the Prince George's Arts Council. And yet, my father, who had last played on a professional basis over 50 years earlier, was inspired by this most talented artist, Santiago Rodriguez.

Rodriguez, who was the Silver Award winner of the Van Cliburn competition in 1981, is critically acknowledged as one of the finest pianists on the international scene. But it was Rodriguez's sense of humanity and the experiences that he felt in common with the composers themselves which Rodriguez interpreted and conveyed. And it was this common understanding and approach which probably brought Herling and Rodriguez closer together. My father, who was always thinking about the future, dedicated his last concert to raise funds for the Greenbelt Arts Center and the University of Maryland Music Scholarship Fund. It was in this spirit, thinking of the pianists of the future, that Rodriguez proposed that the Greenbelt Arts Center present an annual piano concert. A concert which would inspire talented young artists to have a chance to bask in the spotlight, at a nice facility such as the auditorium at Eleanor Roosevelt High School. An event which might give such artists the exposure and experience to possibly launch a career. The concert would be one to showcase young artists of the new millennium, and to raise funds for a new performing arts center and other worthy causes.

Tickets for the event, to be held November 18 at Eleanor Roosevelt High School, can be reserved by calling the Arts Center at 301-441-8770.

Millennium Jukebox" Star of New Year 2001

One of the highlights of the Greenbelt New Year 2001 celebration will be "Millennium Jukebox," a musical variety show featuring talented Greenbelters of all ages. The Greenbelt Recreation Department and the Greenbelt Arts Center's Youth Theater program are working together to present "Millennium Jukebox" at the Arts Center on New Year's Eve.

"This show is really an old-fashioned talent show and community sing-along, woven together with a really fun story," says its creator, Christopher Cherry. The plot involves a group of kids who encounter a mysterious troubadour while camping out on New Year's eve. The troubadour possesses an astounding jukebox that presents live versions of musical numbers from throughout the century. At the end of the evening, the kids — and the audience — discover who the troubadour is and learn the secret behind the amazing jukebox.

"I'm looking for kids and adults who like to sing," said Cherry. "I'm hoping to have singers of all ages and styles participate, from children to senior citizens, from church choirs to teen bands." Informal auditions and sign-up for the show will be held at the Greenbelt Community Center on Saturday, November 11, from 3 to 5 p.m. and Tuesday, November 14, from 7 to 9 p.m. For more information, call Chris Cherry at the Community Center at 301-397-2208.

The Old Curmudgeon

"If 'undecided' was on the ballot, it would win by a landslide!"

Riversdale Mansion Historic Debate Site

Political mudslinging is hardly new — an opponent of James Madison in the election of 1812 had this to say, "... the good people of these states have formed a most erroneous estimate by the drivelling policy and imbecile judgement of a man ... with no political integrity." In 1812, the party system was in shambles and America stood on the brink of war. Riversdale House Museum invites the public to witness posturing and back room politicking at the reenactment of the presidential election, when DeWitt Clinton challenged incumbent Madison.

On Sunday, November 5, from noon to 4 p.m., costumed interpreters will attempt to sway people's vote with speeches and campaign literature at 1 or 2:30 p.m.; then, cast a ballot for a candidate.

There is a fee. Children under 5 are free. Admission includes a self-guided tour of the mansion. Riversdale is located near the University of Maryland at 4811 Riverdale Road, Riverdale Park. For further information call 301-864-0420; TTY 301-699-2544; website: www.pgpc.com ties combined (see chart). Those who consider themselves to be Independents or Declines (for declining to choose a party) represent 17 percent of registered voters or a slightly higher percentage than registered Republicans. The Declines figures also include a very small number of persons who belong to the Constitution or other parties not of a size to be broken out separately.

Democrats outnumber Republicans by almost 2 to 1 at the State level and by 5 to 1 in Prince George's County. This year's figures for the 5th Congressional District indicate that in the Prince George's County section of the district, Democrats outnumber Republicans by almost 3 to 1.

However, the 5th District also includes all of St. Mary's, Calvert and Charles Counties as well as part of Anne Arundel County, areas often thought to be more conservative than Prince George's County.

In the 1996 Presidential election, 69 percent of active and inactive registered Greenbelters went to the polls and voted. The distribution of registered voters was similar to this year's. In 1996, Greenbelters cast 73 percent of their votes for Bill Clinton and 24 percent for Robert Dole. The north end of town, with a somewhat smaller percentage of registered Democrats, cast only 63 percent of its votes for Clinton; Springhill Lake, with a higher percentage of registered Democrats, cast 85 percent of its votes for the incumbent president.

Greenbelt East Advisory Committee have already approved a site plan for the facility. However, there is a covenant on the land which specifies that the property could only be used for commercial office space. If approved, the resolution will enable the city to pursue condemnation of the property, a move which would invalidate that covenant.

Theater Acquisition

A report was presented on the possibility of the city's acquiring the Greenbelt Theater to help it remain open. The overwhelming majority of those speaking at the hearing or contacting the city by email had been in support of the city's acquiring the theater. A number of questions would have to be answered, however, if the city were to take this step, McLaughlin explained, and council agreed to an executive session on October 25, continued on October 30, to deal with those issues.

In answer to a council question, McLaughlin explained that funds raised by the Friends of the Greenbelt Theatre (FOGT) and currently held by the city are dispersed as requested by FOGT. He indicated that this situation was temporary since FOGT was now applying for tax exempt status to raise and distribute its funds.

Transportation Issues

Greenbelt's position on a number of transportation issues was clarified in response to the State of Maryland's annual program for capital improvements to the transportation system, called the Consolidated Transportation Program. While no major construction projects in the program are planned for Greenbelt, there are minor projects, including the construction of a double left turn lane from MD 193 (Greenbelt Road) to Cherrywood Lane, and a study of streetscape improvements on MD 193 from Route 1 to Mandan Road. Also listed is the widening of MD 201 (Kenilworth Avenue) from Cherrywood Lane to Sunnyside Avenue, a project just outside the city limits. There is also money in the program for development and evaluation of a full interchange at the Greenbelt Metro Station to serve the Metroland development and for extending Kenilworth Avenue to intersect with U.S. 1, though no funding is included for construction or right-of-way acquisition.

A meeting of elected officials will be held on November 8 to comment on the transportation program and councilmember Alan Turnbull volunteered to represent the city. Council agreed to restate the city's concerns over the Kenilworth Avenue and Greenbelt Metro projects, to request funding for the Greenbelt Road streetscape improvements and to seek funding for a pedestrian overpass in Greenbelt. On the latter issue, it had not escaped council's notice that Bowie had obtained an overpass on Route 50 at the new Bowie Towne Center site.

Turnbull also wanted to urge State transportation officials to spend more transportation funds on public transport and less on roads. While work on sidewalks in some areas would be postponed until after street improvements, he wanted to remind the officials that sidewalks are important and should be included in future plans.

Councilmembers also discussed the volume of traffic exiting the Greenbelt Metro station and the difficulty sometimes of turning right with the long line of cars waiting to turn left. Council agreed to ask that this intersection be studied for a possible change in markings and traffic turn patterns.

Legislative Program

Council's annual dinner with the city's state legislative delegation and county council representatives will be held on November 28. In preparation for that meeting council discussed and honed its list of legislative priorities for the upcoming year. At the top of the list is a state bond issue for construction of an addition to Springhill Lake Recreation Center, followed by another bond issue for renovation of the Greenbelt theater (if acquisition is approved). Another legislative priority is opposition to public funding of additional Beltway ramps at the Metro station and gaining full planning and zoning authority for the city. The city also agreed to support legislative priorities aimed at the county and those from the Maryland Municipal League on electric deregulation, increased police aid, and increased share of the income tax.

Focus Group

Despite negative experiences and skepticism of councilmembers about State Highway Administration Focus Groups, council ultimately agreed that the city should probably have representation on an upcoming group which is to provide input from Greenbelt and other nearby cities. To make this a more positive and productive experience, council suggested that the responsibilities, authorities, and scope of the focus group be identified up-front. Council will wait for the official letter from the highway administration and then seek representatives. Likely candidates could come from the Advisory Planning Board or Citizens to Conserve and Restore Indian Creek, but council also agreed to cast a wide net for those interested in serving.

Other Business

Resolutions to authorize payment for police training at Prince George's Community College and to purchase resurfacing work for several streets in Lakewood and Woodland Hills were presented for first reading. Following the meeting, minor changes were made and letters sent to the Governor and Lieutenant Governor urging increased support for the Maryland Children's Action Network and the Maryland Juvenile Justice Coalition.

Halloween Costume Winners Revealed

On October 30, a crowd of approximately 180 parents and children came out to enjoy the annual Halloween costume contest and parade at the Youth Center. With costumes ranging from life-size Lipton Tea Bags, to giant playing cards, picking the winners was truly a daunting task for judges Greg Varda, Jen O'Neill and Buddy Humphreys. All who came out in costume are recognized for their enthusiasm; and the prize winning finalists were: Kyle Donn, 2, as Bam Bam, Dalton Brown, 4, as a hockey player, Rose and Patty Cummings, ages 5 and 3, as a fire fighter and dalmatian in fire truck, Lisa Donn, 6, as Raggedy Ann, German Uritsky, 9, as an Indian chief, and J.D. Flanagan, 11, as Alfalfa.

At the Annual Costume Parade our photographer caught some of the many young participants in the Greenbelt Recreation Department's Annual Costume Parade and Contest on October 30.

A Review

New Deal, Big Deal

by Nick Mydra

A big deal at the New Deal. Last Friday, October 27, had yours truly out and about. After attending a business Halloween party, I found myself all dressed up and no where to go. It was about 8 p.m. and we decided to drop in at the New Deal Café. What a pleasant surprise to find out that the Chromatics were the musical group of the evening. As their business card says, they are "full spectrum a cappella." Singing without any musical accompaniment. Just using their voices. They encouraged us to make requests, but quickly added that they didn't do barbershop style. Their range of music goes from madrigal to new age, winter madrigal to lunar love. Seven people strong, the music is such that they all are in control of their voices. All of the arrangements were set up so no one really had to strain their voice to hit a note. All were miked and made sure they were all in balance. No lead overwhelming back-up and so forth. Most members are from NASA Goddard.

Alan Smale, who sings bass is also the business manager. His wife Karen sings alto, along with Lisa Kelleher. Padi Boyd and Deb Nixon sing soprano. John Meyer sings baritone/bass and Paul Kolb did tenor/baritone. They had my full attention because of songs like "Lion Sleeps Tonight," "Under the Boardwalk" and the Doo-wop style. At most they perform about 50 times a year, much of that for schools and seminars dealing with education and science. With the NASA Goddard flavor, it's not surprising some of their songs have titles like "Airplane," "Doppler Shiftin'," "Dance Planets," and "Lunar Love." It's their way of trying to reach the kids and educate them. A lesson physics called "Speed Trap" was well done, with

COMMUNITY MEDIATION BOARD

The City of Greenbelt has re-established a Community Mediation Board under the auspices of the Prince George's County Human Relations Commission. This Board is comprised of city residents who have volunteered to receive mediation training and be available to mediate disputes between neighbors.

Mediation consists of a step by step problem solving process that results in the involved parties agreeing on a fair solution. Mediation serves as an alternative to litigation and brings both parties to the table on an equal basis. A mediator does not act as an advocate of either party. He/she reserves judgment and does not voice opinion.

Types of problems mediated may be noisy neighbors, barking dogs, trespassing children, blocked driveways, family feuds, littering, loitering, neighboring property neglect, small claims matters, etc.

Mediation services will be available at the Greenbelt Community Center on the second Tuesday and fourth Wednesday of each month. Any Greenbelt citizen who wishes to make use of this free service should call the Human Resources Officer, City of Greenbelt, 301-345-7203.

for this office in 1996 as the Libertarian candidate. His running mate for vice president is Art Olivier of California.

The Libertarian Party advocates a smaller government, one so small that income tax would be abolished. Social Security would also be eliminated with sold off government assets financing private retirement accounts for everyone.

Buchanan

Pat Buchanan, 62, Reform Party. Once a senior advisor to three presidents, Buchanan unsuccessfully ran for president as a Republican in 1992 and 1996. This time, he switched his party affiliation to the Reform Party where he and his supporters wrested control from the former supporters of Ross Perot. He has a master's degree in journalism from Columbia University and has been an editorial writer, columnist, television commentator and author of five books. He is married to the former Shelley Ann Scarney, once a member of the White House staff, and resides in Virginia. His running mate is author, educator and conservative activist Ezola Foster of California, an African-American who grew up in poverty in the segregated south but "embraces a color-blind American dream built on traditional values that build strong families and peaceful communities," according to Reform Party information. Buchanan's conservative philosophy is reflected in his campaign slogan, "Right from the beginning—right for 2000."

Phillips

Howard Phillips, 49, Constitution Party. Phillips was founder of the U.S. Taxpayers Party in 1992 (now renamed the Constitution Party) and has run as that party's presidential candidate in the last three elections. A resident of Fairfax County, he is married, has six children ranging from age 13 to 34, and 12 grandchildren. He was active in the Republican Party until 1974 when, as Director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, he had a falling out with President Nixon. Since then he has been chair of the Conservative Caucus which has provided opposition to the Panama Canal and Carter-Breznev SALT II treaties, advocated eliminating the graduated income tax, opposed NAFTA and the World Trade Organization and opposed socialized medicine, abortion and special rights for homosexuals. He is also president of the U.S. Taxpayers Institute and chair of the U.S. Taxpayers Alliance. A graduate of Harvard University, he is the author of four books. His running mate for vice president is J.Curtis Frazier of Missouri.

U.S. Senate

Sarbanes

Paul S. Sarbanes, 67, Democratic Party. Born in Salisbury, Sarbanes is a graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Law School. He was also a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University. He is married and has three children. He was first elected to office in 1966 as a state delegate, moved up to Congress in 1970 and was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1976. He is seeking his fifth term in that of-

Polls Open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

General election day is Tuesday, November 7. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The four precincts which serve Greenbelt are:

- Greenbelt Community Center (third precinct), 15 Crescent Road;

- Springhill Lake Elementary School (eighth precinct), 6060 Springhill Drive; and
- Eleanor Roosevelt High School (thirteenth precinct), 7601 Hanover Parkway.

University of Baltimore and the University of Baltimore Law School. He ran for lieutenant governor in 1994. He is married and has three children and three grandchildren. Rappaport is highly critical of Sarbanes' record as a Senator, claiming that his opponent has never authored a significant bill that became law. Rappaport would strive to rebuild the military, protect Social Security, work for accessible and affordable health care, safe streets, an education system that works and a fair tax system. He is for a missile defense system, is opposed to partial birth abortion and is pro-life, supports campaign finance reform and wants to use the federal surplus to pay off debt, reduce taxes, rebuild the military and for health care and education.

U.S. Congress

Hoyer

Steny H. Hoyer, 61, Democratic Party. A resident of Mechanicsville, Hoyer is a graduate of the University of Maryland and Georgetown University Law Center. He was first elected to the Maryland Senate in 1966 and to Congress in 1981 in a special election. He is seeking his tenth two-year term. He is the fourth-ranking Democratic legislative leader in the U.S. House of Representatives. An advocate for military installations in southern Maryland and for NASA Goddard Space Flight Center, he claims to have supported fiscally responsible legislation to maintain economic growth, worked to increase federal employee pay and benefits, put 100,000 new teachers into schools, cleaned and protected the Chesapeake Bay and kept crime off the streets. He supports deployment of a missile defense system, is pro-choice, supports campaign finance reform legislation and believes that the federal budget surplus should be used to reduce the national debt, extend the solvency of Social Security and Medicare, provide a Medicare prescription drug plan and provide targeted tax relief for Americans.

Hutchins

Thomas E. "Tim" Hutchins, 55, Republican Party. Hutchins is a retired Maryland state trooper, is married and has two children. He has B.S. and M.A. degrees from the University of Maryland University College. He is a Vietnam veteran. He says that his entire life has been a record of service to his country and state and that he will fight for working families. He proposes eliminating the estate tax, ending the marriage penalty, reducing the taxes on Social Security recipients, providing prescription drug coverage for seniors, making schools safe and increasing parental control of schools in conjunction with teachers and principals, restoring respect for the military and improving defense readiness. He opposes partial birth abortion but does not want any other changes in laws concerning abortion, supports the comprehensive, immediate disclosure of the source of campaign contributions and believes that the federal surplus should be used to strengthen Social Security, Medicare, and military readiness and also provide meaningful tax relief to American families.

Joint Replacement Topic of Seminar

A free seminar on "Arthritis and Total Joint Replacement" will be held at Laurel Regional Hospital on Tuesday, November 14 at 7 p.m. in the J.R. Jones Conference Rooms D and E. Dr. James R. Kunec, orthopedic surgeon, and Linda Muller, L.P.N., will present the 1 1/2 hour program which will include a tour of the operating room and the rehabilitation gym, explanation of joint replacement surgery, and showing of various artificial joints. A question-and-answer session will be included.

To register, call Public Relations and Development at 301-497-7914 or 410-792-2270.

Nader

Ralph Nader, 66, Green Party. Nader is a graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Law School. He achieved national recognition after writing a best-selling book, "Unsafe at Any Speed." After General Motors attempted to discredit him, he successfully sued them for invasion of privacy, and used the money received when the case was settled to launch his consumer movement. The activists attracted to his causes became known as Nader's Raiders. Nader claims credit for a variety of consumer protection laws and agencies such as the Safe Drinking Water Act, the Occupational Health and Safety Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Consumer Product Safety Administration. His running mate is Winona LaDuke of Minnesota.

office. Sarbanes says he is a strong advocate for the people of Maryland on such issues as new jobs, improving education, better health care, a strengthened transportation network, protecting the Chesapeake Bay, reducing crime and fighting for consumers. He has co-sponsored a prescription drug benefit plan for Medicare beneficiaries, wants to delay a decision on deploying a national missile defense system, is pro-choice, has co-sponsored two campaign finance reform bills, and believes that the federal surplus should be used to support Social Security and Medicare and improve the nation's infrastructure.
